Now in its second year the Perth Theatre Set Design Challenge for Primary Schools continues to develop the creative skills of all those young people who participate as well as giving them insight into the world of theatre designers, the skills required and how these transfer to the theatre stage.

352 school children, 104 model boxes, 11 primary schools across Perth and Kinross, 2 drama tutors and 1 set designer took part in the second ever Perth Theatre Set Design Challenge.

After workshops at Perth Theatre, the school children were able to choose one of three scenes from Snow White and the Seven Dames - the Enchanted Forest, the Palace or the Dames' Caravan. After making their model boxes the young people returned to Perth Theatre for follow up workshops where they saw the model for this year's pantomime, went on stage, and heard some of the history of the theatre from Sandy McFarlane. They viewed and discussed all the design challenge model boxes and evaluated the project.

One design per participating school was selected by the Horsecross Arts Creative Learning team to represent the project and to be exhibited as part of Reperoire show here at Threshold artspace, Perth Theatre. Following the exhibition, each framed design will be donated to the participating school.

Exhibition produced by Horsecross Arts in partnership with Richard Murphy Architects and Perth Theatre Memory Collective. Additional exhibition support from Heritage Lottery Fund, Culture Perth and Kinross, Perth Theatre Archive at AK Bell Library and all participating primary schools from across Perth and Kinross
